

Foundation charter and Ethical Code

The following Charter establishes the foundations' existence, their values' meaning, their base philosophy and de facto, their mission and prime objectives.

The Fair Future Foundation and its representations, including Fair Future Indonesia Foundation, operate in the fields of education for disease prevention, medical care, women's rights, education and professional integration of children, adolescents and young adults. The foundation also operates in the economical field by according micro-credits or help to develop local economy and in the global social and cultural field.

The foundation helps them regain their autonomy so that they can build their future, while respecting emotional and social specificities and their living environment and utilising renewable energies when possible. The foundation is a non-profit organisation.

1. The foundation operated in total respect of the operating country's beliefs, traditions, customs and religions;
2. The foundation ethos excludes any denominational or ethnic discrimination. Furthermore, they are strictly not politically affiliated;
3. The commitment of the foundation is to build sustainably, without any kind of condescension towards the local population, nor the initiatives already existing.

We consider that

- A. In regard of our society's development, of the global information media access and of the goodwill of those fighting for social progress, health, medical care and education should not be any longer a hindrance to the fulfilment of tomorrow's society;
- B. Hence our foundations make it a priority to develop solutions for one or several issues, to reduce the areas where health & medical care, only exist today in glimpses of hope and this, in respect of the communities and each of their members;
- C. Respect, tenderness, simplicity, care and action are values which will be joined by any positive influence assisting the area, a sector or a matter of interest which we are engaged within relieving it from its deficiencies.

The foundation can fulfil such actions through the actions of voluntary people, which first motivation is to fight underprivileged childhood and lack of healthcare.

Those men and women can testify about what they freely experience and witness, so they can testify in favour of humanity.
